Course content includes:

- Disinfection and sterilisation
- The importance of barriers
- Health and safety
- Introduction to animal facility diseases
- Personal and professional development
- Introduction to animal research ethics
- The importance of the support role to research

During this interactive course, attendees can formalise their current understanding and explore new areas they may be less familiar with.

Designed to involve all support staff, regardless of experience, the emphasis is on the importance and value of the role.